

TCAP Practice/Review

4th grade has compiled a hefty set of practice tests for your students. The purpose of this packet is to help students be prepared for TCAP and be aware of what to expect on the 4th grade assessment. There is one practice session for each actual session of TCAP. Students are encouraged to finish as much as possible during spring break. We will review one test per day starting Monday, March 25. Students who were unable to complete the session for that day will be provided class time to work on that session. The students who have the session of the day already completed will be rewarded with additional free time/recess.

We understand that spring break is a break. Students may be involved with a lot including trips or many other things. We ask that they do as much as they can, even if it's after spring break, to just be ahead of our class schedule. The allotment of class time is because we know there may be circumstances where this is not possible.

Helpful Information:

*Go in order as described above, this will be the order of TCAP, as well as the order it will be reviewed in class.

* Students will only be given 1 hour during actual testing. Keep this in mind and try to help students with time management while they practice.

*Feel free to review the session or any questions with your child as further preparation for the assessment. Please try to do this only after they have tried on their own.

Finished or not, it is very important that students bring their packet to school every day to be able to go over it.
